“ I worked with Steed for several years. He was always passionate about music, politics and a good joke. If you ever wanted to know something about a song, lyric or a musician he was your man.....he could feed you information that would give you a new perspective on the song or singer of which you'd never find by Googling. I enjoyed his dry humor, and his passion for music. I wonder what song Steed would have thought appropriate for his memorial? Some of you may know better but I keep thinking of "Spirit in the Sky" by Norman Greenbaum.

Rest in peace Harris Steed Kettles, Jr. your friend and former co-worker Todd Wahl
