“ we are saddened to learn of jeanna's passing. i visited florida in 2001 looking for a place to build our dream retirement home. i was discouraged, traveling from sarasota down to pine island and finding nothing! i checked in with a realtor who gave me five lot listings in a place called "south gulf cove" he said that land was still reasonable there. i drove down with the five listings in hand. only addresses (lots in florida have addresses) but not a clue where they were. as i drove down appleton i became almost despondent. as i drove past the vacant lots and roads with grass growing through the asphalt i was giving up hope. as i drove further down toward the water, i noticed many roof tops and homes. i spotted an elderly gent riding his bicycle and i stopped him. i asked what was this all about! he said to me, "you have just discovered the best kept secret in southwest florida" on that, he invited me to his home to have a beer and meet his wife. this man's name was blaine bennett and his wonerful wife was jeanna. she immediately took me in. we spoke to then my fiancee and together we looked at every lot for which i had a listing. she and blaine educated me. finally, after she ruled out four of the five listings we settled upon the one lot i finally purchased. throughout the process of selecting my contractor, the building of my home and finally the closing, blaine and jeanna were always there, inspecting, suggesting and helping. when we came to visit during the process, we stayed in their lovely home. we developed a wonderful bond. we were saddened when blaine died, saddened when jeanna moved away and now saddened to hear of her death. no better people than blaine and jeanna!
