“ I grew up with Joyce in Marietta and am also an only child

We lived near one another and had many play dates together. Both of us took piano and loved to play duets, especially to call our favorite teacher and sing and play Ciriaberabeau to her over the phone.

At my house one afternoon my grandfather and aunt were girl sitting. We were so naught that my grandfather said:” Reba, do not let Mary Lou (my mother) know that they got the best of both of us”

Joyce loved playing cards and was wonderful at it. I never once won a single game of go fishing or hearts or any game we played.

As she matured, she grew quite beautiful and was a magnet for the boys at Marietta High. Her personality, however, did not cause jealousy on the part of us girlfriend, due to her sweetness.

For 84 years we were the best of friends, coming home to visit our families from wherever we might be living, going to Howard Johnson's to have a hot dog and coffee brandy ice cream, along with the various children we might have along at the time.

I loved Joyce and always will,

“ I have many wonderful childhood memories of times spent with aunts, uncles, and cousins at "the ridge." One night I remember well, though it must have been nearly 60 years ago, was when the aunts and cousins went to see MARY POPPINS at the movie theater. Aunt Joyce was riding shot-gun and, to entertain all the kids crammed in the back seat, she stuck her foot out the window to signal a right turn. That made everyone in the car roar with laughter!

I will always remember the twinkle in her eyes just before she would flash a big smile, her wit and humor, and her joy in being around family.
