“ Of all people, my mother told me yesterday of your dad's passing. I've gone online the last 24 hrs looking for some notice. I am deeply sorry for your loss. They never really pass on as long as those who remember share in the memories which forever aligns them with eternity. It is the blessing that reminds us of who we are. I remember fondly our vacations at the farm and Myrtle Beach. We've lived our lives a part not really knowing who we are but I've trolled FB silently catching up on your lives over the years. That is a sad statement.

Perhaps one day we'll find time and share our stories. Until then let's burn the candle in believing your father has reunited with your mother and his siblings .

God Bless you all and God Bless Bill.
